BIO

David is a legal intern in litigation, real estate, and commercial departments at a Jerusalem office.

David completed his Bachelor of Laws degree from Ono Academic College, graduating with honors. Additionally, he completed the “Rabbinical Advocate” program and was certified by the Chief Rabbinate of Israel.

As a rabbinical advocate, David gained experience representing clients in various proceedings conducted before rabbinical and private courts (arbitrations), including, monetary claims, business disputes, and more.

During his studies, David participated in the clinic at the Family Court in Jerusalem, where he assisted the Judge Felix Gorodetsky in his work. He also participated in the “Shalem” clinic, providing assistance to underprivileged applicants on various civil legal issues.

David is fluent in Hebrew and French.
