BIO

Ofir is an intern in the firm’s Real Estate Department, focusing on real estate finance and urban renewal.

During her studies, Ofir served as a member of the editorial board of Hidushey Mishpat, where she wrote and reviewed legal articles. Her article on proposed legislation concerning the posthumous use of a deceased person’s sperm for procreation was published as part of the law review.

Ofir also served as a teaching assistant in the “Legislation and Regulation” course in the LL.M. program, participated in a practicum at the Be’er Sheva District Court with Judge Gad Gideon, and served as an analyst at “Omek”, a student organization dedicated to improving the quality of legislation in Israel in collaboration with Members of Knesset and parliamentary committees.

During her studies, Ofir received three academic excellence scholarships and a scholarship from the Shoken Foundation. She graduated with highest honors and ranked first among approximately 120 students in the morning and evening programs.
