Class Actions and Derivative Lawsuits | Commercial Litigation

BIO

Tomer Bar-Nathan is a partner in the firm's Litigation Department, specializing in commercial litigation and representing corporations and individuals in all legal courts and arbitration proceedings. Over the years, he has represented some of the largest private and public companies in Israel, including telecommunications companies, high-tech firms, credit card companies, banks, insurance providers, real estate companies, and government-owned corporations.

With extensive experience in managing complex litigation and crisis situations, Tomer advises clients in a wide range of commercial disputes, including those related to mergers and acquisitions, control battles, class actions, and derivative claims. He is also highly proficient in securities law, banking, corporate law, insurance, consumer protection, and telecommunications law.

Tomer is recognized by The Legal 500 for his expertise in complex commercial litigation, class actions, and real estate disputes, regularly acting for some of Israel's largest corporations across multiple sectors.

Tomer has specific expertise in real estate litigation, regularly representing developers, contractors, and procurement clients in high-value disputes and crisis management matters. He has acted for many of Israel's leading real estate companies in complex legal proceedings.

Tomer earned his LL.B. (magna cum laude), a bachelor's degree in economics, and his LL.M. (magna cum laude), all from the University of Haifa in 2009. He was admitted to the Israel Bar in 2010, joined the firm in 2013, and became a partner in 2020. He is fluent in Hebrew and English.

LEGAL500

"Tomer has a highly creative ability to resolve conflicts and crises. He fights for our company when necessary but also knows when prolonging a dispute would be a waste of resources, skillfully guiding the other side toward a resolution- a quality hard to come across."

"He is an excellent litigator who provides a very high level of service. He is a true winner with a superb ability to build a winning argument from a challenging set of facts."

"Tomer Bar-Natan is an outstanding litigator — strategic, insightful, and highly responsive. He consistently delivers practical, business-oriented advice and leads his team with professionalism and integrity."
