Competition/Antitrust

BIO

Nava Karavany is a partner in the firm's Competition/ Antitrust Department, with extensive experience in all areas of antitrust law, including complex mergers, joint ventures, restrictive-trade practices, and matters relating to abuse of dominant position.

Earlier in her career (2005- 2012), Nava practiced law in the legal department of the Israel Competition Authority, where she was in charge of different sectors including food and beverages, retail and telecommunications, and worked as a criminal prosecutor. Nava was appointed chief of the Telecommunications and High-Tech Unit, and later on was the first person to be granted the title of 'Expert' within the ICA legal department. During her term at the ICA, Nava headed complex litigation cases before the Competition Tribunal and the criminal court.

In the past, Nava clerked for the Honorable Justice Tova Strasberg-Cohen of the Supreme Court of Israel.

Highly regarded in the legal arena, Nava has earned prestigious recognition in The Legal 500 and Chambers Global, reflecting her exceptional expertise and unwavering commitment to excellence.
