BIO

Opher Levy serves as managing partner at Arnon, Tadmor-Levy, specializing in corporate and commercial law, banking, credit card law, telecommunications law, and intellectual property law. An expert in navigating diverse business sectors, he has clientele from a wide range of sectors, including financial services, various food industries, credit card payments, environmental technology, and private investments.

Renowned for his creative problem-solving and out-of-the-box solutions, Opher has successfully overseen numerous large-scale commercial and legal operations in recent years. His ability to provide timely solutions for complex business scenarios has solidified his reputation in the industry.

Opher is particularly acknowledged for his influential role in the credit card industry, earning accolades from international legal directory Chambers Global for his “great expertise”. He holds a significant position in representing one of Israel’s leading credit card companies.

Previously, Opher served as a member of Midroog Ltd., an Israeli subsidiary of Moody’s, and played a key role on the board of directors at IBC Israel Broadband Company (2013). Additionally, he served as the chairman of the Israel Squash Association, illustrating his commitment to both professional and community involvement.

Recognized internationally, Opher has been lauded in rankings such as The Legal 500, IFLR 100, and Chambers Global, in which he has been described as having “a strong reputation in regulatory matters for credit cards and payment services.”
