BIO

Adi Krupsky is a partner in the firm's Competition/Antitrust Department, where she advises local and foreign clients on various aspects of competition law, including complex mergers, joint ventures, restrictive-trade practices and matters relating to the abuse of a dominant position.

Earlier in her career, Adi worked as a corporate attorney in the New York and London offices of Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison LLP, and as an attorney in the legal department of the Israel Competition Authority.

Adi earned her LLM degree at Columbia Law School, where she served as a research assistant in the field of international antitrust law, and interned at the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York. During her studies, Adi was awarded the Norman E. Alexander scholarship, and she graduated as a James Kent Scholar.

Adi is admitted to practice law in Israel and New York.
