BIO

Edan Regev's practice focuses on civil and commercial litigation in a variety of areas, with an emphasis on class actions and disputes involving intellectual property, entertainment law and media issues. He represents some of the leading foreign and Israeli companies in commercial negotiations and provides them with strategic advice in civil disputes.

With an in-depth understanding and familiarity of the entertainment and art world, Edan also represents production, media, advertising and record companies, as well as producers, advertisers and artists. In this field, he provides legal services in drafting broadcasting and distribution agreements, dealing with diverse issues in connection with art-related rights, as well as litigation procedures, and advising in strategic and commercial aspects of transactions with communication and new media companies.

As part of his vast experience in intellectual property, new media and media, Edan also supports foreign companies seeking to enter the Israeli market, in the fields of communications, telecom, television broadcasts and streaming, advising them on various regulatory issues.

In addition to representation in courts and in arbitration proceedings, Edan provides his clients with ongoing legal and commercial advice in a range of areas.

Edan joined the firm in 2011 and became a partner in 2020.
